PEACE OF MIND ENHANCED DUTY OF CARE

Despite the best precautions, accidents and injuries happen – at home and at work - and often with devastating impact on individuals and their families. Employers feel the fallout too in terms of the cost and impact of employees being unable to return to work.

That's why some companies are adding Group Personal Accident insurance to their employee benefits package, to offer protection for both themselves and their staff. It enhances employer Duty of Care, saying to current and prospective new employees that you go above and beyond statutory requirements.

Suited to the needs of companies with 250+ employees - any industry, any number of subsidiaries (or none at all), and anywhere in the world - Generali's Group Personal Accident Insurance lightens the load for both employers and employees.

WHAT DOES GENERALI GROUP PERSONAL ACCIDENT COVER?

Swift support

Generali offers a range of cover options – from accidents when individuals are at work to accidents that happen at any time. We also make the process of claiming quick, considerate and hassle-free.

Comprehensive cover

We make rapid lump-sum payments for fatal, serious and permanent injuries for the individual to spend as they see fit – or specifically for funeral expenses – helping them through the toughest of times. We also provide weekly indemnity in the case of temporary injuries.

Extra help

In addition, we take a holistic approach to help further lighten the load on accident victims and their families. We can provide a range of supporting payments for broken bones and dental treatment, if required and as a result of the accident.

Psychological back-up

We also help with the psychological impact, funding the appointment of professional counsellors if therapy is required.

Lifesaver benefit

A Lifesaver benefit completes the package. If someone tries to save the life of an insured employee - who is not themselves insured or a member of the emergency services - and that results in the death or life-changing injury of that person, the plan includes a special facility to nominate a lump sum payment.

LOOKING FOR A MULTINATIONAL SOLUTION?
